Annual Dinner & Awards

The Law Society, Chancery Lane, London

Friday, 20th November 2015

Kindly sponsored by:

Celebrating an industry

A formal dinner with a relaxed atmosphere – a great opportunity for BWF members and their guests to network, celebrate achievements in our sector and enjoy a five star evening in London with colleagues from the woodworking industry.

Thanks to the generosity of our sponsors (below), we are again freezing the individual ticket price and yet again all those shortlisted for the awards receive a free ticket to the event, ensuring the awards are truly open to all.

“ It is always a special evening, great to meet so many people as passionate about the industry as we are and the awards just keep getting better
Sharon Gorf, Parker Joinery

The Law Society

The magnificent Law Society building has been at the very centre of the legal world since its completion in 1832. The stunning neo-Georgian building and graceful rooms impart style, gravitas, and a sense of heritage befitting the BWF Annual Dinner and Awards

Your host for the evening

Declan Curry has been a business and economics journalist for more than twenty years. Declan was business presenter for BBC One's "Breakfast" for seven years. He also presented BBC Two's "Working Lunch".

accoya Technical Excellence & Innovation

Recognising the very best in innovative products or projects, this award was set up in memory of John Hedgecock to celebrate the best in design, application and ability in joinery,

Process Efficiency

This award recognises exceptional projects that have improved performance in your business. From the simple to the complex, it recognises the exceptional efficiencies that you are delivering for your customers.

Apprentice of the Year

Recognising apprentices that have stood out during their time with a joinery company. They may have achieved some fantastic feats in their work, or shown extraordinary commitment that really adds value to a company's workforce or production.

Trainee of the Year

Celebrating those that have entered through other training routes, including graduates, A-Level students and in-house trainees. Entries are open to any trainee that is undertaking (or has recently undertaken) external training/qualifications, or a structured in-house training programme that is employed within a joinery company. The Award will recognise outstanding achievement, commitment, adding value to the trainee's company, and personal development.

Health and Safety Hero

Recognising an individual or collective effort to improve Health and Safety Performance, from the one off incident, to measureable results born of gradual improvement and tenacity. This award is for your Health and Safety Hero.
